FOR COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS,

JAMES A. LEWIS. The Tariff Situation

The tariff situation at Washington has again changed, and it is now announced that the house is likely to yield to the demand of the senate, the result being the construction of a mensure on the lines of the senate bill, which the Democracy of the country has de-nounced, and which the President has declared is in violation of party pledges and a prostitution of party honor, though it is possible the senate will also do some yielding.

Until the bill is reported it is impossible to say definitely what, if any, changes will be made in the essentials upon which the two houses have disagreed, but it is not probable that the senate will be found to have made material concessions. It was known from the start that many Democratic members of the house were not satisfied with the house bill as passed, and that they voted for it under protest. It is probable that the lukewarmness of those members in the support of the Wilson measure has been the prime cause of the weakening on that side and has been correspondingly a strengthening of the senate's position.

If the indications now telegraphed from Washington are borne out by developments to-morrow the President will be left in a somewhat embarrassing situation. A yielding of the house and the adoption of a bill framed on senate lines would be a crushing defeat for him and for his supporters.

In the meantime, the question will arise, can Mr. Cleveland, in the light of what has occurred, and in view of the sentiments expressed in his letter to Chairman Wilson, approve such a measure? If he should do so, would he not stultify himself? Next to the important question of whether the bill finally adopted will be a Democratic form bilt in line with the platform, or the senate surrender to the trusts-a question which is keeping the country in a disturbing state of uncortainty,-is the additional cause for uncertainty, the question as to what will the President do if the result of the conference is the triumph of the senators whom he has declared are guilty of party perfidy and party dishonor.

Mr. Wilson and Free Coal.

ginin, which you are supposed to represent in tongress. Increased from $3,000 tons in 1880 to 188,54 tons In 1821. Will you void to check this growing industry. The property of the property $25,000 in 1872. Since then each has been pro-tected by a duty of 75 cents per ton and the out-put in your state had increased to 9,285,750 tons in 1892. Will you vote to check this growing ba-dustry?

Mr. Wilson answered the inquiry before it was propounded, if the Economist will excuse the paradox. He answered it by reporting a bill providing for free coal and iron ore and then voting for its He is answering it now by contending for those features of his bill in the conference between the house and senate committees, and in obedience to the dictates of the letter of the President instructing bim to stand firmly by the free raw material theory.

Wilson never could have been elected to Congress from West Virginia had it been known that he favored free coal. A declaration for free coal would have assured his defeat for even a renomination. In all his campaigns in his district, which is a great producer of coal, Mr. Wilson has talked for a of coal, Mr. Wilson has talked for a tariff on coal, holding that it was simply a revenue duty and not a tariff for tives of the Riga railway in Russia, and tariff on coal, holding that it was sim-protection. In his campaign speeches (In his own district) he has taken the pains to explain that it was through his efforts, largely, that coal was retained on the dutiable list in the Mills bill.

Mr. Wilson has made a peculiar record on the free coal question, and an embarrassing time awaits him when he comes before his people this year ask-ing for a "vindication."

Cleveland vs. Cleveland.

In President Cleveland's famous letter under date of July 2, 1894, written to Chairman Wilson, of the ways and means committee, the following sentenco occurs:

"You know how much I deprecated the incorporation in the proposed bill of the income tax feature."

In President Cleveland's message to Congress December 4, 1893, wherein he gave a forecast of the provisions of the Wilson bill, the following occurred:

Wilson bill, the following occurred:
"The committee, after full consideration, and to provide against a temporary dedectancy which may exist before the country adjusts itself to the new tariff schedules have whelly embraced in their plan a few additional international revenue taxes including a small tax upon incomes derived from certain corporate investments. These new assessments are not only obsciency is and raisy borne, but they have the further merit of being such as can be remitted without uniavorable business disturbance who ever the necessity of their imposition no longer exists."

Now, the question arises, if President Cleveland deprecated the incorporation of the income tax in the Wilson bill, why did he say in his official message to Congress that the Wilson bill "wisely embraced it," and that it was "absolutely just and easily borne."

Will some "Cleveland Democrat" kindly explain the inconsistency between the President's official message to Congress and his letter to Chairman Wilson, which was in the nature of an message, and has been so acofficial cepted?

The Sugar Proposition.

The proposition to remove the sugar obstacle in the way of the passage of the tariff bill by throwing aside the agreement with the trust and adopting a flat advalorem rate of 45 per cent., with an extension of the bounty to January 1 next, may satisfy the Louisiana sugar men, but what will become of the old Democratic cry against "taxing the poor man's breakfast table?"

It is estimated that the consumption of sugar in the United States, on a basis o! 68,000,000 people, at a per capita consumption of 65 pounds, is 4,420,000, 00) pounds, valued (at 3 cents a pound) at $132,600,000. An ad valorem tax of 45 per cent on this amount would be tax on the breakfast tables" of the country of $59,670,000, or more than 87 cents on each man, woman and child, and nearly $4 50 on each family of five

A settlement of the sugar issue in uch a manner will afford Democratic editors and orators an opportunity to revamp their old campaign donunciations of the taxing of the whole people for the benefit of a few sugar growers, and turn them upon their own party.

First District Populists.

The Populists of this congressional district metat New Martinsville yesterlay and nominated a candidate for Congress. Following the example of their Fourth district brothrenthey adopted a 'middle of the road" resolution which pledges the nominee to stand firm upon the Omaha platform and to form no coalition with any other party. The candidate named, John E. Staley, of finrrison county, will likely poll his fill party strength.

The policy of the Populists of this state to "keep in the middle of the road" this year has been a set-back for Senator Camden, whose agents have been industriously making an effort to form combines with them in certain counties where the Democratic chances for the election of legislative tickets are very uncertain.

Dend Consistency

The President demanded free coal. If the compromise indicated is decided upon he will not get it, but may get a concession providing that coal will be admitted free only from such countries permitting the free entry of our own coal. This is the reciprocity idea that Democrats have been fond of denouncing as a fraud, and which Mr. Wilson, when the proposition was made during the pendancy of the bill in the house declared was a direct violation of party principle. But principles are "uot in it" in the desire of the Democrats of Congress to pass a tariff bill as a cam paign necessity. Consistency has also been laid on the shelf under the stress of circumstances.

THE Register gives Col. Ben Wilson. the protectionist Democrat who is opposed to the Wilson tariff bill, a boost for Congress in one breath, and in the next breath cries for the passage of the Wilson bill. It is not probable that Col. Wilson will be a Democratic nominee this year. He doesn't belong 'to the free trade wing.

Concoud Chunch, W. Va., July 30.-

The Republicans of Plymouth district met at this place on last Saturday and elected delegates to the county convention. Prof. J. F. Halroyd presided and W. C. Hedrick was made secretary. The meeting was harmonious throughout. After the meeting was over, Mr. B. P. Pennington, of Mouroe county, in response to calls, delivered a stirring speech of three-quarters of an hour in length. His arraignment of the Democratic party was made in a masterly manner, and he ably defended the principles of the Republican party.
